You can be sure of one thing as far as Lisa is concerned – she always comes 5 minutes too late, regularly driving her teachers to the brink of desperation. But with her friendly smile she always manages to get out of trouble.

Her English background shows vor example, when she starts chasing Prince Charles all over Berlin, or in the lunch-break when she munches her peanut-butter sandwich. Unfortunately that doesn't give her a chance to show her excellent english table-manners, for which some people envy her. Her knowledge of English, even including the right pronunciation leaves many tachers in bewildered awe.

Although on the surface Lisa appears to be a very quiet person, one only has to sit next to her for one lesson to know better. Especially in boring lessons, she can be the final rescue. Surprisingly though she still manages to get good marks most of the time.

Alongside school Lisa concerns herself wth several things, mainly in caring for small children (Sunday school, Camp,) These children throw themselves en masse in the school playground (HELLOOOOO LIIIIISAAAAA!!!): But also listens to the problems of people of her own age and always tries to support them and give good advice.

Lisa's musical taste, although she herself plays the cello, is not as conservative as you might at first think. She also likes Christian rock-Musik, but her collection of worldly modern Music CDs is still quite small, her circle of friends on the other hand is very big. Maybe that is why she is fully booked-up at the weekend and takes so long to read her books. (especially fat tomes like "Jane Eyre")

Since Lisa is a girl who thinks ahead, she knits socks in her free periods. Lately, she at last passed her driving test, but still comes to school by bike.

With all her idiosyncracies, Lisa is simply very nice, and she even has the rare ability of being able to criticise without hurting people's feelings. After the Abitur-Exams Lisa first plans to do a voluntary social year. What comes after that is anyone's guess.

*As long as we have dreams,
We live.*

*As long as we live
Give us the dreams hope.*

*As long as there is hope
We do not fear the future.
The future lies in our hands.*

*Let us not just dream it,
Let's live it!*

O, wie lieblich

*Oh, wie lieblich, o, wie schicklich sozusagen herzerquicklich
Ist es doch für eine Gegend, wenn zwei Leute, die vermögend,
Außerdem mit sich zufrieden, aber vom Geschlecht verschieden,
Wenn nun diese, sag' ich, ihre, dazu nötigen Papiere
Sowie die Haushaltssachen endlich mal in Ordnung machen
Und in Ehren und beizeiten hin zum Standesamte schreiten,
Wie es denen, welche lieben, vom Gesetze vorgeschrieben,
Dann ruft jeder freundlich: Gott sei Dank! Sie haben sich!*

Heilbronn's "Best Wines, Spirits and Softdrinks Retailer 2008"

"Sebastian Richemeier is the friendliest, most trustworthy and helpful Drinks-Retailer in the whole of the Heilbronn area." His customers don't just say that, but have recently given him their approval in black and white. That Herr Richemeier's customer-centred sales-method pays off, is evident. His Chef reports, "The profit made in Herr Richemeier's branch in Horkheim is well above the average in our line of business."

"He was always good with money", says his sister, Andrea. "That was already obvious when as children we spent days playing Monopoly. Our father had given us special purses for the game, and we made a lot of additional paper money and also IOU-tickets for when we borrowed money."

Herr Richemeier still enjoys Games, eg. The Football League edition of Monopoly, and apart from that we hear from his family and friends that he is a football fan ; an enthusiastic supporter of Schalke 04.

However we hear from a well-informed source, that no longer drinks nor football take the first place in Herr Richemeier's heart, but rather his fiancée Lisa Scheck. The couple are soon to be married, in a quiet Family Wedding.

We congratulate Sebastian Richemeier and his Bride on their marriage and on his well- earned prize as Heilbronn's "Best Wines, Spirits and Softdrinks Retailer 2008". We wish them every happiness for their future, and that Schalke will be the winners of this year's Cup Final.

Herzblatt

An entry from Bettina R's diary:

18.7.1981 - Now you are nearly 13 months old. Your first birthday is already behind you. Yesterday you took your first steps alone, and today you enjoyed marching around the whole flat! A little bit more every day! You are giving your parents so much joy! You're quite a wild fellow at times, but that's how boys are. You understand every word, including what you should not do, but you try hard to distract us! You know where the train runs and point to the balcony-door. You are a really clever little boy!

Lisa and Sebastian - a never ending story

Once upon a time there lived a fair maiden named Lisa. She lived in a middle-sized town in the beautiful country known as Zabergau. She spent her time in studying diligently, making music and singing in her parental home.

Some times she spent time with other likeminded, fun-loving friends, and on one such occasion she became acquainted with another young maiden. The following meeting with her was so exceptionally enjoyable, that they decided to meet one another more often.

Now it happened that this new friend, whose name was Angelika, had the amazing good fortune of being in the same school class as an extremely interesting youth. A friendship had grown up between them which required very few words and was firmer than many a verbally based relationship. Although Angelika was a very busy person, she often paid a surprise visit to her much treasured friend, Sebastian, who, as it happened, lived in the same town as our delightful maiden, Lisa. Sebastian never seemed to object to Angelika's calling in unexpectedly.

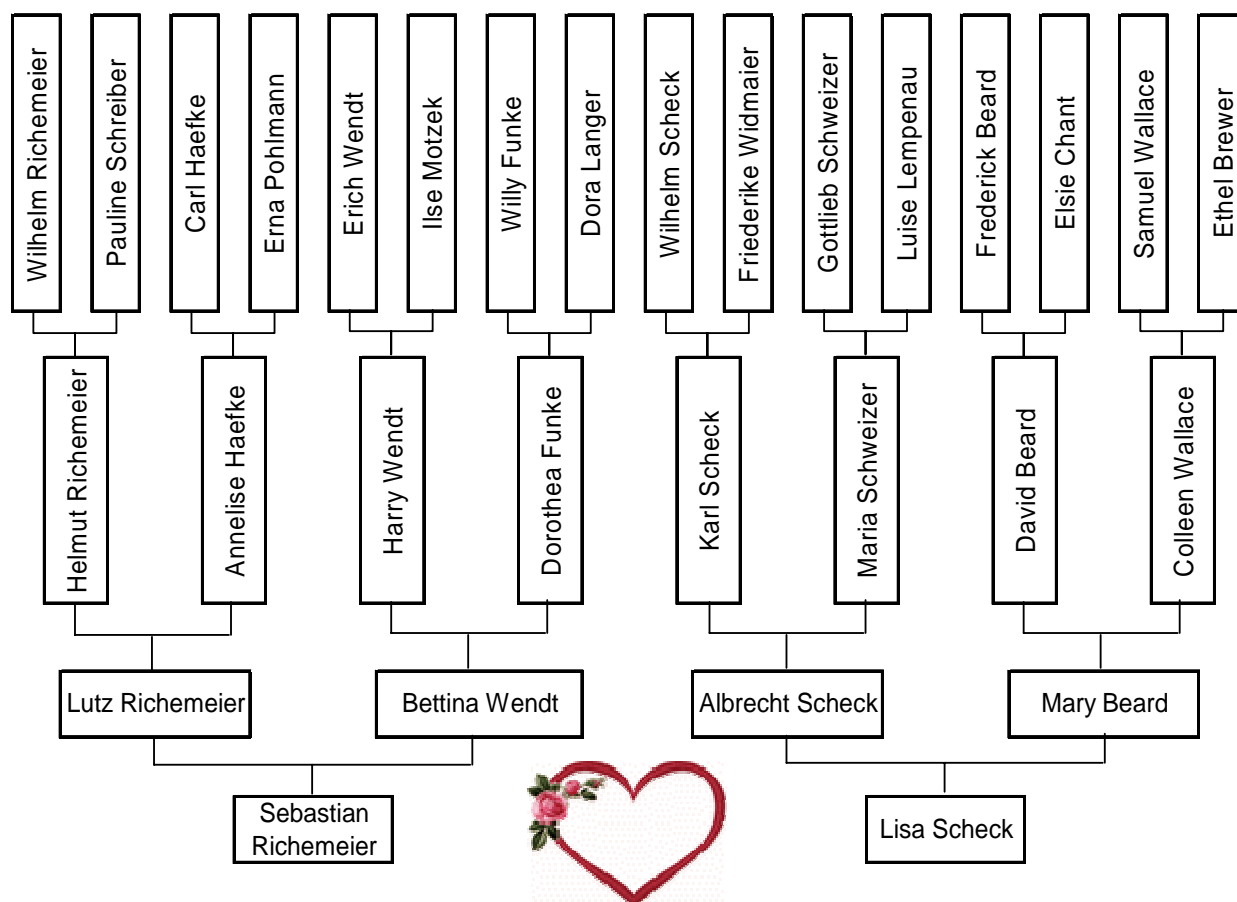

After tea one afternoon as the two fair maiden were looking for some kind of amusement to while away the time, they decided to spring a surprise visit on the aforementioned youth. They had no idea what amazing happiness lay before them! Listening to music together, Angelika soon became aware of the fact that she was only acting as a kind of chaperone, for two people whose future happiness was budding into blossom before her very eyes. And so it was, that from an innocent "getting to know-you" drop-in, the first steps were taken which would ultimately lead to a life lived together in love.

May they both live happily ever after.
